U. S. Aviators Separated in Bad Fog

TWO PLANES TURNED BACK; THIRD ON WAY

U. S. Nelson is Nearing Goal in Iceland, Despite Fog.

Reykjavik, Iceland, Aug. 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—Lieut. Eric Nelson, flying from the Orkneys to Iceland in the American world flight, passed the U. S. Destroyer Rein this afternoon, 120 miles southeast of Hornafjord, Iceland, headed for that island. A United States cruiser is reported fifty miles off Hornafjord directing the course of Nelson's plane.

Kirkwall, Aug. 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—The American army air men on their world flight struck a heavy fog off the north coast of the Orkneys after setting out from here for Iceland early today and the planes became separated. Lieutenants Smith and Wade circled their machines for some time in a hunt for Lieut. Nelson in the New Orleans who was apparently in the rear, but not finding him, returned to Kirkwall. The machines that put back afterwards settled down in Houton Bay to await the expected return of Lieut. Nelson.

A wireless message to the cruiser Richmond which had preceded the airplanes notified her of the situation and she is returning. Lieutenants Smith and Wade returned to Kirkwall at 11:20 o'clock. Their machines flew over Kirkwall and a message from Lieut. Smith was dropped, reading:

Message to Destroyer.

"Send a message to the Richmond that we all became separated in the fog and that Wade and I have returned. Have not seen Nelson since we became separated on the course 25 miles from Hirsay."

Lieut. Smith expressed his belief that Lieut. Nelson was continuing to Iceland.

They searched for half an hour for Lieut. Nelson and then abandoned the hunt to seek for the Richmond in order to drop a message bag. The Richmond was hidden in another fog off the west Orkneys and they gave up this effort and returned over Kirkwall, dropping their message and then anchoring in Houton Bay.

Davis' Speech Will go to Printers this Eve

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Locust Valley, N. Y., Aug. 2.—In the seclusion of his home here on Long Island, J. W. Davis pressed forward today to the completion of the address he is to deliver in his home town of Clarksville a week from next Monday in accepting the democratic presidential nomination. He had before him merely a process of revision. He expected to place the final draft in the hands of the printers tonight and was to devote his time next week to the perfection of his campaign organization in consultation with C. L. Shaver, his campaign manager, and other advisers.

Mr. Shaver is in Washington today in connection with organization matters but will return to New York tomorrow.

One Year Ago Today Pres. Harding Died

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Marion, O., Aug. 2.—Simplicity marked the first anniversary of the death of the late President W. G. Harding, in his home town.

Always avoiding ostentatious ceremony while he lived, his wishes were being followed after death. No public ceremony had been arranged other than the laying of a wreath at his tomb in the cemetery here. The wreath, sent by President Coolidge, was to be placed without pomp.

During the day hundreds wound their way along the paths of the cemetery, stood for a few moments with bowed heads at his tomb and passed on.

At 7 p. m. the hour of his death at the Palace Hotel, in San Francisco one year ago, the old bell in the central fire station was to sound for the departed executive. At the first stroke, friends and neighbors of the nation's former chief are to bare their heads in reverent memory for five minutes.

Dr. G. T. Harding, the former president's aged father, was not to take part in any ceremony.

MRS. CORA WHITE DIED FRIDAY AT STATE CAPITAL

Member Well Known Pioneer Family is Summoned Home.

Word was received here late yesterday of the death of Mrs. Cora Maxwell White, who passed away Friday at her home in Springfield, Ill. The deceased was a member of one of the pioneer families of Dixon and left here several years ago to make her home in Springfield. The remains will arrive in Dixon this evening and will be taken to the Staples-Moyer mortuary.

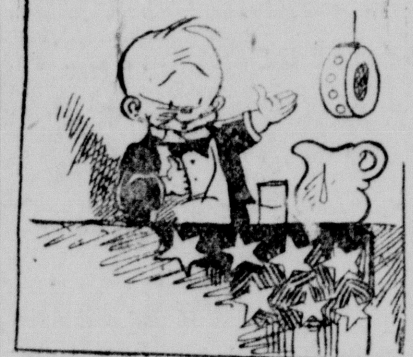

Funeral services will be conducted Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the Staples-Moyer chapel, Rev. Prentiss Hovey case, pastor of the Presbyterian church officiating and with interment in Oakwood. Dixon chapter of the Order of Eastern Star will have charge of the services at the grave. The complete obituary will be published later.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hart of Ashton were in town this morning.

DEAN GILBERT OF DEKALB COLLEGE DIED ON FRIDAY

Well Known Teacher is Stricken Suddenly at Summer Home.

Dean Newell Darrow Gilbert, head of the department of education of the state teachers' college at DeKalb, who is well known to all educators throughout the northern part of the state, died suddenly at his summer home in Bass Lake, Mich., early Friday morning. The remains of the deceased teacher will be taken to DeKalb for funeral services and burial. He had been a member of the faculty of the DeKalb school since its foundation in 1839.

Born in New York

Newell Darrow Gilbert was born in November, 1854, at Clyde, New York, the son of Rev. and Mrs. Silas B. Gilbert. His father was a Baptist clergyman in Illinois for a period of nearly 40 years. The father died in 1894, at the age of 75, while his mother, surviving until 1906, passed away at the age of 86.

Newell D. Gilbert came to Illinois in early boyhood. Here he pursued his education in the public school of Mendota, Marshall, Mich., and Freeport. He later entered the Illinois Wesleyan university and graduated in the classical course in 1879.

He taught his first school in the vicinity of Freeport, but after three months took up bookkeeping in the employ of the hardware firm of Lawler & Burchard, of Freeport, with whom he continued until he entered the college.

Following his entrance to the college he taught his first high school class at Litchfield, leaving college for a year in order to undertake the work. Following his graduation, he became superintendent of the Clinton, Illinois, schools, where he remained from 1879 until 1882. After a brief superintendency at Utica, from 1882 to 1884, and at Maywood from 1884 until 1887, he took charge of the schools where he remained for 12 years. At Austin, a suburb of Chicago,

From "Garage to Garage," Not from "Coast to Coast"

A Ford of ancient design and well rattled by continued years of service drove up to a local garage and the two young fellows in it asked that some repairs be made. They had the appearance of tourists from afar and the license plate was issued in another state. A large banner on the back attracted the garage man's attention and he stepped around to read where the car was from and where it was going. The boys, emulating George Washington in truthfulness, had hung out their sign with the significant words, "From Garage to Garage." They paid their bill for the minor repairs and left for the garage in the next town.

Kiwanians Will Resume

Collection of Fines in July Within $6 of Record for Any Month

The month of July came near being a record-breaker in police court for the collection of fines imposed for violation of ordinances. Chief J. D. Van Bibber announced this morning when he had completed his report for the month just closed. The report shows a total of $631.30 in fines and costs collected for the month, which is about six dollars short of equalling the former record of $637. Last October the report showed $637 in fines and costs collected for the month which established a record in the history of the department.

RAID ON HOME OF TAFT'S KIN RAISES QUERY

Violation of Law in Search Charged By Legal Staff.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
New York, Aug. 2.—There was an air of uneasiness at prohibition headquarters today following a raid by two dry agents on the home of Hugo G. DeFritsch, prominent clubman, whose wife is a niece by marriage of Chief Justice William H. Taft. Her mother is a sister of Mrs. Taft. Ninety-five cases of liquor and wines were seized.

The raiding agents obtained a search warrant from U. S. Commissioner Doyle on their sworn statements that they had seen a case of liquor carried into the DeFritsch home. When the agents consulted the legal staff at their headquarters following the raid they were told that the law provided for search of a private residence only when there was evidence of liquor being sold. It is certain that the agents bought no liquor at the DeFritsch home.

They were told they had started something "new" and that although possession of liquor, unless pre-prohibited stock, would be a violation of the Volstead law, a citizens' constitutional rights against unlawful search and seizure, must be respected.

Curiously enough there were no lives lost and not even any broken bones.

Rockford-to-Milwaukee
Pavement Thrown Open

Motorists will have a clear trail over concrete and excellent tarmac from Rockford into Milwaukee beginning tomorrow.

The last detour on highway 61, between Elkhorn and East Troy, will be eliminated today when the new concrete between those two points will be thrown open. This road has been tied up for two years and Milwaukee bound motorists of late have been compelled to take a five mile gravel detour over county highway A.

Two small detours around new concrete bridges, between Clinton and Darien, were removed the first of the week, leaving a clear road into the Wisconsin metropolis. The Rockford-Milwaukee road is now all concrete, outside of cities, with the exception of the tarmac strip immediately north of Rockford.

Fined for Overloading
Truck on State Highway

August Huckle of Chicago, driving a large Chicago delivery truck, was arrested east of Dixon on the Lincoln Highway yesterday afternoon by State Motorcycle Officers Kempster and Card for driving with an excess, five load. They were taken to the police station where Huckle pleaded guilty to the charge and paid a fine of $10 and costs to Justice Grover W. Gehant. The truck, according to the state officers, carried an overload of 1,900 pounds on the rear axle.

TWO DIXON WOMEN HURT IN ACCIDENT FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Mrs. O. H. Martin, Mrs. Floyd Chapman Victims of Auto Mishap.

Mrs. O. H. Martin, and Mrs. Floyd Chapman of Dixon are both in the Dixon Hospital today as the result of a bad accident on the Lincoln Highway just west of Franklin Grove last evening. Both women are badly but not seriously injured, although their escape from death is considered remarkable. The Lincoln touring car in which they were riding is badly wrecked. It rolled over twice on the pavement.

Mrs. Martin suffered a dislocated left elbow, a cut under the chin and Mrs. Chapman received a bad scalp wound about six inches long. Both victims received general bruises and minor lacerations.

Mrs. Chapman and her aunt, Mrs. Martin, were returning from Sycamore where they had been visiting Mrs. Chapman's parents. Mrs. Chapman was driving and after passing a car in swinging back to the right side of the pavement, a right wheel skidded over into a rut on the edge of the concrete. The car then swung clear across the pavement and caught in a rut on the other side, was thrown back again and turned sideways, rolling over twice.

Mrs. Martin was thrown clear of the car and Mrs. Chapman was crushed down under the steering wheel, staying in the machine. Passing motorists, who failed to give their names, brought the injured women to the Dixon Hospital. The accident occurred about 5:30.

COUPLE TAKEN IN WEST END HELD TO GRAND JURY

Serious Charges Made Against Man and Woman Arrested Here.

A man and woman, said to have been living as man and wife in a rooming house in the west end of the city were taken in custody last evening by Chief J. D. VanBibber and Officer Harry Jones. The couple gave the name of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Alexander when they came to Dixon about five weeks ago and took up their residence here, according to the police. The investigation by the officers developed the fact that Alexander, aged 37, has a wife and two sons living in Savannah.

The woman in the case gave the name of Miss Lillian Yochem, aged 24, of Savannah, and she is said to have told the police that her former name was Wilson, but that through divorce, she resumed her maiden name. Statutory charges were preferred against both parties in police court last evening and Justice Albert H. Hanneken held them to the September grand jury under bonds of $500 each, which they were unable to furnish. Both were sent to the county jail.

About the same time that the couple were being taken in custody, a long distance telephone message from the chief of police at Savannah was received, requesting the Dixon officers to arrest and hold both parties.

More Land Bought for Rockford Forest Preserve

Before adjourning late Thursday afternoon, members of the forest preserve commission of Winnebago county authorized the purchase of three tracts of land comprising more than 100 acres at a cost of $13,395.

The purchase includes all land recommended for purchase by the real estate committee with the exception of Islands No. 1 and 2 in Rock river which could have been purchased for $3,000. Yesterday's expenditure still leaves the forest reserve treasury in a flourishing condition, approximately $24,909 remaining.

CROWE WANTS TO SEE FIRST REPORT THAT BOY MURDERERS WERE INSANE; THEN CHANGED

Intimates That $250 Per Day Influenced Dr. William White, Defense Alienist, to Change His Line of Reason.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—A direct attack on the credibility of Dr. William A. White, head of the government hospital for the insane at Washington, was made in Judge Caverly's court today by Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney who cross-examined the doctor on his testimony in defense of Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb.

The attack developed in a shortened half day session when the prosecutor asked Dr. White to produce the "original report" he had made to attorneys for the defense. It was stated flatly by Mr. Crowe, over objections that came hurriedly from Attorney Clarence S. Darrow, and Walter Bachrach that the report held the defendants insane rather than mentally sick.

Judge Caverly suggested that since the question of insanity was barred from the present proceedings the report might not be competent.

"But your honor" expostulated Mr. Crowe, "if that report shows that for $250 a day this witness has found these boys insane and then for the same fee now holds them only mentally sick, I believe your honor will give less weight to his opinions."

Another refusal of the report by the defense caused Mr. Crowe to say he was satisfied to "let the matter rest right there."

Judge Caverly and Dr. White exchanged "good morning" nods as the doctor ascended the stand for continuance of his cross examination. Mr. Crowe started with a question as to the witness's statement yesterday that Loeb had considered killing members of his family and also Leopold.

Questioned Authority

"What is your authority for this?" asked Crowe.

"Loeb himself," said the doctor.

"The fact that he told you this but not the state's attorney was significant?"

"I never considered it as I did not know exactly what he had told you," said Dr. White.

Dr. White said the only authority he had for saying that Leopold had considered killing Loeb was a letter written by the former.

The state's attorney next elicited that Dr. White had not applied the usual tests to Leopold and Loeb, having depended for this aspect of the case upon a report by Dr. William Healey who is to follow him on the stand.

"You are of the opinion Loeb is intellectually, plus part?" asked the state's attorney.

"He showed up very well," said Dr. White.

"His emotional age, you said yesterday, was low, four or five," suggested Mr. Crowe.

"I couldn't fix it definitely," was the response.

Asked About Family

"Doctor, have you any children?" was the next question.

The witness smiled as he replied he had a step-child and a grand-child.

"Which is responsible for the murder, the emotional or the intellectual man," asked Crowe.

"You cannot split a man like that," replied the doctor.

"Where did the crime originate, in the emotion or the intellect?"

"It originated in the drive of the instincts, or the emotions. But I do not believe that is a very complete statement," said the expert.

"Could the intellectual have stopped the emotions at any time during the six months they were planning this crime?" asked Mr. Crowe.

"I don't know," said Dr. White.

"Do you think a man with the emotions of a child of five would show sympathy for others?"

"Ordinarily, no."

"Do you think a man with the emotions of a child of five would show consideration for the feelings of others to the extent that he would not want to divulge the names of decent girls when he got himself into trouble?" asked Mr. Crowe.

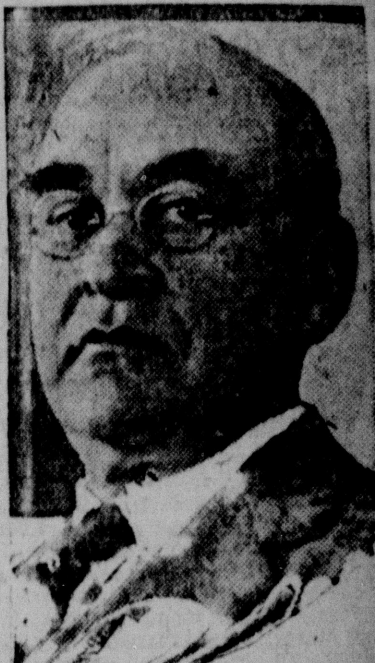

Loeb Swayed All Times

The doctor explained that Loeb had been swayed all the time between right and wrong, but that Leopold had a better determination of mind than Loeb.

Mr. Crowe asked if a child of five could say that he had contemplated killing the grandson of the president of the company with which his father was connected and then ask to keep that name out because "Dad" is out at Sears Roebuck & Company and it might embarrass him with Julius Rosenwald. Mr. Rosenwald is president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., of which firm Loeb's father is an executive officer.

"That would show affection for his father," the doctor said.

FOR DEFENSE

Dr. William A. White of Washington was the first of the corps of defense alienists to be called to stand in the trial of Nathan F. Leopold, Jr. and Richard Loeb, slayers of Robert F. Franks. State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe immediately opposed his right to testify.

His Family Blinded

Mr. Crowe read a long question to why Loeb had appeared normal to all his family and social contacts and they never had noticed any abnormality or sub-normality. The doctor replied that Loeb's emotional age was such as to endear him to his people and those with whom he came in contact, and to blind them to the defects that would be apparent upon an examination by experts.

"What is criminal intent?" asked Crowe.

"I don't know, you tell me," replied the doctor.

"Well, you are not in accord with the law," Mr. Crowe asserted while Dr. White said responsibility was a legal fiction to fasten upon the defendant something that would justify a verdict of right or wrong."

Not in Accord With Law

"No, I am not in accord with the law in a good many ways in my way of thinking," said the doctor.

"Is Loeb different in will capacity from any other criminal?" Crowe asked.

"That is a vague term," Dr. White replied. "I cannot talk about any any criminal."

"What is right in a legal sense and what is right in a medical sense?" asked Mr. Crowe.

The witness replied that right was in conformity with the "moral" mind; insanity is a legal term. "I am insane only after a man legally has been declared 'insane,'" said the doctor.

He was asked about the use of the term in a book he had written, and replied:

"I used insanity instead of some condition philosophical term in a book to the average person in looking over."

Today's Market Report

Black Rust Among Canadian Fields of Wheat Boosts Price

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Aug. 2.—Reports of damage of black rust in Canada wheat decided upward swing in the wheat market today. It was stated that every field examined near Melita, Manitoba, showed black rust on the stems and that apparently most of such wheat would be ruined. Active buying of wheat followed announcement of final acceptance of the Dawes plan, strong commission houses taking the lead. Opening prices which ranged 1-8c off to 3-8c up, September, 1.30 1/2-1.31 were followed by an advance of more than 2 cents all around and then something of a reaction.

Further strengthening of the market was associated with higher rates of foreign exchange. Besides, it was said vessels chartered had been issued to take five million bushels of wheat west from here, largely to Montreal. The close however, was unsettled, although 1-8c to 1-7-8c net higher, Sept. 1.32 1/2-1.33 and Dec. 1.33 1/2-1.34.

All deliveries of corn jumped to a new high price record for the season. Very little corn was for sale, Sept. delivery in particular and with bidding lively, the market made a rapid advance. After opening 1-4c lower to 1-3c higher, Dec. 93 1/2-94, the market ran up more than 4c a bushel in some cases.

Oats ascended with wheat and corn. Starting 1-5c to 1-2c down, Sept. 48 1/2-49, oats quickly touched 50c for Sept.

Provisions were strong.

Unseasonably cool weather and a forecast of more counted as a bullish influence in corn, inasmuch as the growing crop need not weather. The close was firm, 2 1/2 to 4 1/2c net higher, 1.03 1/2-1.04.

FINE SERVICE AT ASSEMBLY ON SUNDAY EVENING

Special Music By Large Chorus and Address By Miss Case.

Service at the Assembly, Sunday evening will be made especially attractive by the large chorus Mrs. E. M. Goodsell has gathered to sing. The chorus is made up largely of the Lutheran choir augmented by members of other church choirs and assisted by such well known soloists as Miss Ruth Mossholder, and Messrs. Long and Anderson. The following numbers will be rendered: Festival Te Deum by Dudley Buck and "Break Forth Into Joy" by Everett K. Foster, for the chorus of forty voices. Duet "Relieve in The Lord," by T. A. Schaecker by Miss Mossholder and Mr. Long.

There will also be solos by Messrs. Anderson and Long. Miss Lucy E. Case, who is to be the speaker, has filled three engagements, lecturing before the Chicago League for the Hard-of-Hearing this week and is nationally known as a leader in the science and art of lip reading, having attained this after losing her own hearing in the many years she spent as a foreign missionary in Japan, where she was the head of the Peach Blossom College for girls at Osaka, Japan. Miss Case will also speak at the Presbyterian church in the morning.

Dr. Owens, Dixon's Oldest Practitioner, Leaves City for East

Dr. Edmund B. Owens, the oldest practitioner in Dixon, left today for Pomona, Md., where he will make his future home. He will motor to Chicago this afternoon, spending a few days in that city and then will proceed east to his new location.

Dr. Owens came to Dixon early in 1901 and established himself here, being a most successful physician and surgeon. He was very popular in many circles and was a charter member of Dixon lodge, No. 779 B. P. O. Elks.

Dr. Owens in leaving Dixon would not give out his future plans, other than he intended to locate at Pomona, Md., a thriving suburb 25 miles south of Washington, D. C. He spent several days in this locality recently on a trip through the east. His wide circle of acquaintances in Dixon and vicinity join in wishing him every success in his new location.

a book stall would be more likely to take it," said the doctor.

Mr. Crowe went over pretty much the same ground as applied to Leopold.

Know He Was Wrong

"Intellectually," Dr. White said "Leopold knew he was wrong but he had no feeling of it."

"Is Loeb the leader in this crime?" asked Mr. Crowe.

"It's almost impossible to separate these individuals and put one out as a leader," Dr. White replied.

"The crime was much more the outgrowth of Dickie's way of thinking than Babe's, but was aided by Babe's intellectual agility and way of thinking."

"Which has the stronger mind?" asked Crowe.

"I should say Babe has the more clear cut, cleanly conceived objective. Dickie impresses one as following the line of least resistance."

Dr. White argued with the prosecutor when Mr. Crowe sought to bring out whether the fact the youths had a third intimate associate would make any difference in his estimate of the boys. Dr. White refused to say whether the third youth should be examined in a psychopathic hospital.

Leopold's "Super Intellect"

Dr. White in reply to a series of questions replied that he did not think Leopold had misled him, the prosecutor referring to Leopold's as a super-intellect.

Dr. White was very combative at this point, fencing with the prosecutor and replying "veh" instead of the conventional "yes."

The questioning revolved about whether the doctor would have a different opinion of Leopold if it were assumed that Leopold's statement to the psychiatrist had been different from the true facts.

"I am asking you, has Loeb dementia praecox?" Mr. Crowe insisted when the doctor refused to answer yes or no without being permitted a further explanation.

Judge Caverly ruled that the witness could not answer in any way possible when he could not answer yes or no.

"Praecox Not Insanity"

"Is dementia praecox insanity," asked Crowe.

"No," replied the doctor.

"What's moral insanity," and "what's depravity," brought statements from the examiner and witness that each knew what they meant.

Investigate Theft of Explosives at Amboy

Sheriff E. C. Risley was called to Amboy this afternoon to investigate the reported theft of a quantity of dynamite from a road construction camp near that city. Special Agent Fairweather of the Burlington was in Amboy in connection with the theft, it having been reported that several of the sticks of explosive had been shot off on the railroad company's right-of-way. Investigation today developed the fact that a number of boys had taken the dynamite and caps and exploded the most of it in field near Amboy. Some of the explosive, however, was reported to have been used in Green river just south of the city.

FORMER JUSTICE OF SUPREME COURT DIED THIS MORNING

George Shiras, Jr., Passed Away at Pittsburgh from Pneumonia.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 2.—George Shiras, Jr., 92, justice of the United States Supreme Court from 1892 to 1903, died in a hospital here today after he had fractured his leg in a fall at his home here five weeks ago.

He served as Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court from October 1892 to February 1903, when he retired on pay under the general voluntary retirement act, at the age of 71 years. He was one of the few justices that had not held public office prior to his appointment.

He was practicing law in Pittsburgh, Pa., when he had been born on January 25, 1832, when President Harrison invited him to a seat on the supreme bench.

His collegiate education was obtained at Ohio University and at Yale. He remained an enthusiastic college man throughout his life. On one occasion it is remembered how jubilant he felt when, on leaving the Supreme Court one day, he was told that Yale had defeated Harvard at football.

"Won't I rub it into Shorty Gray?" the distinguished jurist exclaimed, referring to his associate, Justice Gray, who was proud of his Harvard training.

Important Tax Case

Probably the most important case before the court during Justice Shiras's service was the decision on the income tax provision which Congress had attached to the Tariff Act of 1894. The constitutionality of the provision was twice considered by the court, the first time when only eight justices were present and the members were equally divided on several points. In the second consideration the income tax was declared to be unconstitutional, because

BUT ONE GOT HIM—

"At sixteen the girl is a woman; at twenty-five, if still unmarried, she is a girl," sternly said the philosophical youth, who had devoted much time to thinking. "She will face death with a tremor and swoon at the sight of a mouse. The only time she does what you expect her to do is when you expect her to do what you do not expect her to do. The only reason she does anything is because she doesn't know why she does it. She jumps at conclusions and always lands on them, because when the conclusion skips to one side in an endeavor to avoid her it gets squarely in her way. The only man who understands a woman is he who understands that he doesn't understand her, and lets it go at that."

News Note: Two weeks later he married one of them.—Country Gentleman.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS—

Chopping Bowl.
A wooden chopping bowl that retains the odor of onions or any strong foods that have been chopped in it should be soaked in hot water to which a teaspoonful of soda has been added.

Should Be Chilled.

Be sure that the dishes you serve salads and cold meats on are chilled before using.

Careful of Milk.

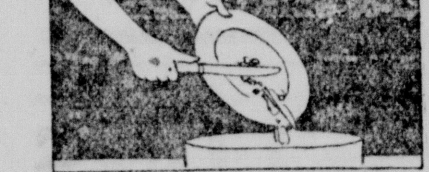

Do not leave the milk out of the refrigerator one extra minute during the hot weather.

Refinishing Furniture.

When refinishing furniture never add a second coat of paint until the first is dry.

Don't Scrape Pans.

Do not scrape food from agateware pans, as you will injure the finish. Soak well and boil if necessary.

S. D. Community Club Held Meeting

The South Dixon Community club held a meeting on Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Walter Ortleson, the attendance being large, of members and visitors.

A display of Chinese art, and needlework was beautiful and unique and much admired.

Mrs. Ralph Lehman and Mrs. Cora Wadsworth gave papers on the Chinese, their life and customs, and art, and both papers were well prepared and presented and much enjoyed.

During the business meeting it was decided to hold the annual picnic Tuesday, August 26th, at Lowell park.

It was also decided during the business meeting that although the meetings would be discontinued during August an evening party would be held at the home of Mrs. Fred Miller Tuesday, Aug. 12.

Mrs. George Travis and Mrs. Robert Llevan assisted the hostess in serving the delectable and dainty Chinese luncheon, completing a most enjoyable afternoon.

DeKalb-Dixon Game Friday

A team of golf players from DeKalb came to Dixon yesterday and were guests of the Dixon ladies at the Dixon Country club where an enjoyable day was spent in golf and where a most tempting luncheon was served at noon at the club house.

The Dixon team was victorious, the score at the close of the game being 20 to 4.

Mrs. Milo Oakland of the DeKalb team was awarded a prize for the low gross score for the visitors, and Miss Eva Benson of the DeKalb players was awarded a prize for making the least number of puts in the 18 holes.

Mrs. Wilson Dysart of Dixon made the lowest score for the 18 holes.

The entire day was one of great enjoyment at the club.

10,000 STORES IN A CHAIN.

The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. now has 10,000 stores scattered over the country.
That is worth reading twice.

Several times, in fact. It is a weathervane of the way the "trade winds" are blowing.

Ten thousand stores owned by one giant chain system! It is almost beyond the imagination.

United Cigar Stores and agencies number out 2500.

The Woolworth 5-and-10-cent chain has around 1300 stores. There are more than 60 Childs restaurants.

And these are only a few of the many main store systems. Chains of hotels are being established. Chains of department stores are growing.

The retail business—bridge between producer and consumer in the marketing of commodities and services—is steadily amalgamating into gigantic chains.

This movement or tendency is strikingly familiar to the industrial combinations among producers that begin to get under way about a decade ago. U. S. Steel, formed in 1902, the big leader. Now the same thing is going place in retailing.

The growth of chain store systems has been swift and far-reaching. But the thing has merely started. It is a bit discouraging to the young fellow who wants to get into business for himself. The obvious lesson is that the day is at hand when accomplishment will be impossible without capital and the co-operation of others.

The sun has not yet set for individual accomplishment, but it's late afternoon and the day is dark and cloudy.
The economic law of checks-and-balances comes to the rescue. On the average, this is the tendency: As organizations become large and pass a certain point, the economics made possible by their size usually are to considerable extent absorbed by overhead costs.

Production in industry already has the marks of military organization and combination. And retailing seems headed that way.

The outcome apparently will be one or a few gigantic business organizations controlling all sources of production and all channels of distribution—and even regulating consumption.

TORCHLIGHT'S RETURN.

There is some doubt as to the vote-making efficacy of presidential campaign torchlight parades but not a scintilla of doubt as to their picturesqueness and peculiar ability to arouse public interest in the political status quo. It is probably with full knowledge of the aforesaid that the republicans in certain sections of the country plan a regular, old-fashioned torchlight procession when their national candidates are formally advised of their respective nominations.

Years ago the illuminated parade played a distinctive and important part in presidential campaigns. Our national archives abound with pictures and descriptions of them. The grandfather of the present Prince of Wales was an interested spectator at two of them, one in Detroit and one in New York in 1860.
There is no history on American politics which ignores this phase of the early national campaigns.

Within recent years, however, there have been no such nocturnal spectacles in political celebration. The politicians and enthusiastic partisans obviously have left this duty to college freshmen and klansmen.

It follows that a vacation from events of this order will add zest to the occasion of their promised re-introduction in this campaign, although the three-party contest and LaFollette's acrimonious oratory assure an interesting campaign even without the real fireworks.

IMAGINARY DIVISERS.

Oliver Wendell Holmes divides people into four classes: "Nice people who live in big houses and horrid people who live in big houses. Nice people who live in little houses and horrid people who live in little houses."

We hear today from well defined quarters that all of the nice people live in big houses and all the horrid people live in little houses and we also hear today from just as well defined quarters that all of the nice people live in little houses and all of the horrid people live in big houses. Not all people as fair with their fellowmen to day as was the New England physician, poet and essayist.

Envy, ignorance and pride construct these class barriers which make human beings hate each other and condemn that which the other stands for. Not every rich man believes every poor man is without value and not every poor man says all rich men are without good.
Reasonable and intelligent people believe in that age-old maxim: "There is so much good in each of us and so much bad in all of us that it little behooves any of us to speak ill of the rest of us."

Civilization climbed a step upward when it taught mankind that all social classes were essential to the existence of a whole people; that capital needed labor as much as labor needed capital; that the employer works for the employe as much as the employe for the employer; that the poor of today will be the rich of tomorrow.

True charity is seeing the good in others whether above or below you on the artificial ladder of society.

FLOATED.

The Wall Street jackpot grows. In the first half of the year 1408 million dollars worth of stocks and bonds were added to the listings on the N. Y. Stock Exchange. The bonds totaled roughly twice as much as the stocks. And over 271 million dollars represented foreign bonds.

We are rapidly approaching the day when the entire national wealth will be blanketed by securities. It will be a big mortgage, and everyone will pay interest on it.

It's a good thing there's no two-thirds majority required to elect a president this year.

Many a man has gone far in politics without an electoral college training.

Mister Zip painted a new sign.

Mister Zip painted a new sign. It was there. And everybody from the meadow land was there. And even some of the water people like Granddaddy Frog and young Mosley Mud Turtle, were there.

So I know its true, as so many people saw it. Somebody left the bars of the fence down and who should get out of the sweet clover field but old Gray Tail, the horse.

Old Gray Tail didn't know there was such a place as Happy Go Lucky Park in the world. Or if he did, it just went in one ear and out of the other. He had heard Mrs.
Yellowwill Duck talking to Mister Cockadoodle about having a good time somewhere or other, but he hadn't paid much attention.

And all at once didn't he almost step on it—Happy Go Lucky Park.
I mean. "Hello, here!" said old Gray Tail.
"What's all this about? And what are those good smells I smell?"

With that he dipped down his pig nose and ate up everything on the popcorn, peanut, ice cream cone stand!

"Oh, oh, oh!" shrieked all the visitors. "Go away, Gray Tail! You aren't allowed to have things without money."

"Excuse me, said Gray Tail. "I didn't know that. I thought you got them for nothing. I haven't any money. But I can't give them back.
I'll go away now, though, and not bother you any more."

That was the end of Happy Go Lucky Park. There wasn't any use of staying any longer.

Nancy and Nick helped Mister Zip put up the sign. "Closed till next year."

I don't know where Mister Zip spent his vacation.

The Jungle

(An intimate story of innermost emotions revealed in private letters)
FROM THE DRAMATIC PAGE OF
"THE MORNING ARGOSY"

Last night at the Iroquois Hotel, before a brilliant assemblage of guests, Mr. Richard Summers and Miss Beatrice Grimshaw were married.

Rarely have there been seen as many flowers at a social function as at this wedding, the whole wall behind the improvised altar being hung with a canopy of La France roses, the bride's favorite flower. This was done at the request of Miss Paula Perier, the brilliant young moving picture star, who has many friends in the city. Miss Perier, on the arm of Mr. John Alden Prescott, made one of the party following the bride. The best man and matron of honor were Mr. Sydney Carton and Mrs. Sally Atherton.

A congratulatory telegram was received from Mrs. Prescott, whose father shows a slight improvement.

The bride was very charming in the maid-of-honor costume that she had worn three years before at Mrs.
Prescott's wedding. Mrs. Sally Atherton, a recent widow, was gowned in orchid chiffon, and Miss Perier was radiant in cell blue chiffon heavily embroidered in pearl beads.

The corridors of the Iroquois were filled all the evening with a curious crowd, hoping to see the famous moving picture star, but no one of the party made an appearance down stairs.

Mr. and Mrs. Summers will accompany Miss Perier back to New York today, where, after a gay week or two with friends, they will start on their trip across the continent to Hollywood, where Mr. Summers has bought a beautiful home in the foothills.

Broiled Meat Comes
Out Of This Oven
Done Through

A nice juicy steak broiled to a nice brown is particularly delicious and the New Method broiling oven makes this possible.

There is a burner at each side of the oven. Each burner throws a solid sheet of flame toward the center so that the two flames meet in the center and cover evenly the entire top of the broiling space.

This means that there is absolutely even distribution of heat and that the broiling or toasting is done on all sides perfectly uniform. New Method burners are lighted from the front with the door open while you are lighting it—there is no opportunity for an explosion.
You can always see the flames and adjust the length for different heat requirements.

The New Method Broiling Oven is only one of five outstanding patented features that are on all New Method Ranges. Come in and let us show you these exclusive time and money saving features.

5 Patented
Features

Enameled Steel Burner. Consumes more than three times as much air and one-fourth less gas.
Instantly removable for washing.
Enameled inside and out. Guaranteed for five years.

Swinging Simmering Burner and Lighter. Movable from one front burner to the other. Instead of lifting heavy pots simply swing the little burner to where you want it. Also a light er when and where you want it.

Baking Oven. Flames do not touch bottom. No warping or burning out. Absolutely even heat distribution. Baking will brown on top before burning on the bottom.

Broiling Oven. Has burner at each side extending front to back, flame covering evenly entire top of broiling space. Lighted from the front. No possibility of explosion.

Counterbalanced Oven Door. No springs or latches to break, come off or become lost. A perfectly balanced door that is always a source of convenience to the housewife.

BABE RUTH LEADS LEAGUE IN ALMOST

"Bambino" Having Most Wonderful Year of His Career.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Aug. 2.—First in runs scored, first in circuit drives, first in total bases, first among the hitters, and first in the hearts of baseball fans is "Babe" Ruth, king of home hitters, who now promises to surpass his record of 1921 by which he established himself as the best home run hitter of all time. That year he smashed out 59 four baggers and crowned himself champion of champions.

This year, the "Bambino" in month of July, tied his best previous mark for home runs gathered in one month, when he cracked out his thirtieth against the White Sox in Chicago. He was scheduled to perform in a double header at St. Louis on July 31, the day on which these averages were compiled, and may possibly then surpass his record of June 1921, when he smashed out 13. At this time these averages were compiled Ruth had 32 homers compared with a mark of 37 the year his remarkable record was made.

The great Yankee slugger scored 99 runs in 93 games he has played, an average of one run a game, and has made 123 hits, a gain of 11 in seven games, for a total of 259 bases. His batting average was boosted five points in the last week, and today he is topping the hitters with a mark of .384. Ruth does not always get a chance to hit the ball, as he has a record of drawing 99 free tickets to first, or an average of one base on balls per game.

Maurice Archdeacon of the White Sox, said to be the fastest man in spiked shoes, has been playing regularly since his return, and is tied with Ruth in the averages, but has participated in only 55 games. Bibb Falk, another White Sox star, has a gain inside a challenge to Ruth, and advanced fifteen points in his average. He is the real trailer to Ruth with a mark of .379, with Jamieson of Cleveland holding down third with .343.

Eddie Collins, Captain of the White Sox, is leading the base stealers with 20 thefts, an increase of four. Much of Collins' success in pilfering bases lies in his judgment more than his speed, although age does not seem to have slowed him down to any appreciable extent.

Other leading batters for 60 or more games are: Goslin, Washington, .341; Sheely, Chicago, .340; Covo, Detroit, .338; E. Collins, Chicago, .339; Boone, Boston, .336; Heilmann, Detroit, .328; Speaker, Cleveland, .328; Neusel, New York, .326; Jacobson, St. Louis, .322; Mostell, Chicago, .322; Myatt, Cleveland, .322.

Roger Hornsby, Cardinal star 2nd sacker, is still on his way to shatter the record of Honus Wagner, four times batting champion of the National League, a record Hornsby ties last season, when he won his fourth consecutive championship. The veteran Pittsburg star established his

His average in 1920 was .370; in 1921, .397; the next season, .401 and last year he hit .384. If he continues his present stride he will better any of his previous records, as he has shown a tendency to remain well above the .400 mark. At the present time he is traveling at a .403 clip, his 145 hits giving him the leadership in total bases, which including 26 doubles, 11 triples and 14 homers, run his string up to 235.

Zach Wheat, Dodger veteran fly chaser, continues to be the runner-up of the St. Louis idol with an average of .377, and Jack Fournier, Wheat's teammate, is tied for third place honors with Ed Roush of the Cincinnati Reds, each with .348. Fournier, however, is out of the front among the circuit drive hitters with 22 homers. Gabby Hartnett of Chicago being his nearest rival with 15.

Max Carey, of the Pirates, failed to increase his base stealing record of 24 and is challenged by Cliff Heath cke of the Cubs who has pilfered his 21st base.

Other leading batters:
Bressler, Cincinnati, .347; Young, New York, .342; Kelley, New York, .326; Frisch, New York, .335; Grigby, Chicago, .333; Snyder, New York, .326; Hartnett, Chicago, .324; Blades, St. Louis, .322; Wrightstone, Philadelphia, .318.

OFFICIAL PUBLICATION

Pursuant to law in such case made and provided, public notice is hereby given that the following Joint Resolution of the Fifty-third General Assembly, proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the State of Illinois, which proposed amendment will be submitted to the people for adoption or rejection at the general election to be held November 4, 1924.

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 1
RESOLVED, by the Senate of the Fifty-third General Assembly of the State of Illinois, the House of Representatives concurring herein: That pursuant to Section 2 of Article 14 of the Constitution of the State of Illinois it is proposed that Section 2 of Article 14 of the Constitution be amended to read as follows:

Section 2. Amendments to this Constitution may be proposed in either house of the General Assembly, and if the same shall be voted for by two-thirds of all the members elected to each of the two houses, such proposed amendments together with the yeas and nays of each house thereon shall be entered in full on their respective journals and said amendments shall be submitted to the electors of this State for adoption or rejection at the next election of members of the General Assembly in such manner as may be prescribed by law. The proposed amendments shall be published in full at least three months preceding the election and if a majority of the electors voting at said election shall vote for the proposed amendments, they shall become a part of this Constitution. But the General Assembly shall have no power to propose amendments to more than two articles of this Constitution at the same session, nor to the same article oftener than once in four years, provided, that no constitutional amendment shall be proposed or voted on during the time the United States is engaged in war or within one year following the declaration of peace.

Adopted by the Senate June 26th, 1923.
J. H. PADDOCK,
Secretary of the Senate
Concurred in by the House of Representatives June 15th, 1923.
B. H. MCCANN,
Clerk of the House of Representatives
FRED E. STERLING,
President of the Senate
DAVID E. SIENKOWSKI,
Speaker of the House of Representatives

The form in which the proposed amendment to the Constitution of Illinois is to appear upon the official ballot at the general election on November 4, 1924, is as follows:
The proposed amendment of section 2, Article XIV of the Constitution of the State of Illinois:
This amendment makes it easier to amend the Constitution of this State in this: It permits amendments to not more than TWO articles of the Constitution, instead of ONE, as a present, to be proposed at the same session of the General Assembly and submitted to the people for adoption or rejection at the next general election of members of the General Assembly: Provided, however, that no amendment may be proposed or voted on during the time that the United States is engaged in war, or within one year following the declaration of peace.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—Entries thus far received for the Western Junior Golf championship to be played August 12-15 at Briarcliff Club, Chicago, indicate that 200 youths under 20 years of age will take part in the event, it was said today, by Secretary J. W. Busch of the Western Golf Association.

Last year there were 177 starters.

Star Women Golfers Have Started Practice Today

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Aug. 2.—Dozens of star women golfers today began practicing on the Onwentsla links for the women's western golf championship, the medal round of which will be played Monday at 18 holes. The entrance of Edith Cummings, national champion and member of Onwentsla, has stirred interest so that fully 150 starters are already listed. Miriam Burns, of Kansas City, defending champion, does not need to play in the qualifying round.

The Yankees are still leading in the American League pennant race as a result of their victory over the St. Louis club yesterday when they took Urban Shocker into camp 3-2. The Yanks scored one run in the second and two in the fifth. The Browns made two in the eighth, but could not produce the tying run.

Babe Ruth and Joe Bush of the Yankees had arguments with the St. Louis rooters, police preventing Bush from climbing into the stand after a fan. Ruth was put out of the game in the ninth when he took issue with Umpire Rowland.

The Senators won their third consecutive victory over Detroit, winning 7-3. They are just half a game back of the Yankees.

Beating Cleveland in a close pitchers battle 4-3, Philadelphia evened the series.

Chicago made it three straight over Boston, Faber getting a 2-1 decision from Ferguson in a close pitchers battle.

In the National League the Pirates winning streak came to an end when the Giants beat them 3-1. The Giants are now leading their league by seven full games. Chicago losing ground when the Dodgers beat them 4-0. Vance winning his 17th game of the season. The Brooklyn twirler tied the record for consecutive strikeouts, recording seven in a row and came within two of the major league record by fanning 14 Cubs men in nine innings. Brooklyn team gained a full game on both Chicago and Pittsburgh in the club standing.

In a 15 inning pitchers duel between Benton of Boston and Rixey of Cincinnati, Benton was returned the victor by a 3-2 score.

Leonard-Walker Fight
in New York, Aug. 20th

By Associated Press Leased Wire
New York, Aug. 2.—The fight for the welterweight championship belt between Benny Leonard, world's light weight champion, and Mickey Walker holder of the welter crown, will take place Aug. 20, at the Yankee stadium. The men go 15 rounds to a decision. In the event of rain on the 20th, the fight will be held two night later at the stadium.

TENNIS TALKS

BY MERCER REASLEY.
Tink Arie-Z Man of Tennis.
I think Benny Leonard, the lightweight champion, would have made a great tennis player if he had gone in seriously for the sport. I was in the east several years ago when Benny was training for an important fight.

Benny had been accustomed to shadow boxing to develop fast footwork. Now he's got the notion that tennis would do the same thing for him. Possibly it would be an improvement over hitting at an imaginary foe and stepping briskly around the ring.

I gave Benny a few pointers. It was astonishing the way he got the hang of hitting the ball correctly. Maybe his pugilistic training helped. At any rate he was always in position to hit a return and the way he hit it was generally close to perfection. He timed the hit perfectly and followed through with his body all the way.

I am not sure that pugilistic training is the best means to high-class tennis skill. I am sure, however, that if the players will work on the same principles that mark the boxer's hitting efforts he will develop a strong, sure tennis stroke.

Just for the fun of it, do a little elementary sparring some time, and see if the weight of your body and the movement of your feet aren't naturally guided by the actions and leads of your hands.

Leonard has mastered the art of perfect hitting in the ring, the art of following his leads with body power. The tennis stroke came naturally to him, because the relationship is very definite.

You should use the racket as an extension of the hand. First develop timing, then master the knack of putting your weight behind the shots. Golf is much like this, too.

New York.—Tons of steel girders fell when a derrick lifting them to the top of a 15-story building broke.

Arthur Brown, walking beneath, was buried beneath the debris. Hundreds crowded to the scene. Brown walked calmly from beneath the wreckage, which had fallen in such a manner as to make a protection wall for him. Only his clothes were dusty. A newspaper photographer posed in the spot on which the heavy girders had fallen.

Just as Brown started to the spot, the remaining half of the derrick and more girders fell at his side. Brown finally posed for the pictures—a block away.

While the boys of New York play marbles the girls play jacks.

Just as the boys have been having a big tournament for several years, the girls are engaged in a tourney this year.

It promises to be an interesting competition.

The fine driver in golf shoves all the way through with his swing. If he were to stop his swing short just after meeting the ball he would get neither distance nor direction. The same sorry results would attend a tennis stroke stopped abruptly at the moment of contact.

Chinamen are wary as to introducing two countries.

None of this hokum back-slapping, hand-grasping tomfoolery of the professional introducer, so prevalent today.

For the honor of the Chinese code demands that if No. 1 introduces No. 2 to No. 3 and if No. 2 subsequently incurs a bad debt with No. 3, then, No. 1 is honor-bound to make good the loss No. 3 has sustained.

Broadway. Noon. The crowd moves sluggishly. Sand still in eyes of many. Theatrical people are late risers. Disheveled chorus girls dashing from a morning's rehearsal to snatch a bite of lunch. That girl looks familiar. I'm positive she's from my home town. Pardon me, miss, but aren't you Mildred Mauch. No? Well, I'm sorry. Don't be angry. I'm not a maser. But you look just like a little girl I saw growing up back in Lafayette, Ind. You did. You are. You remember me, now? Well, why the high-hat, then? Oh, you've changed your name. I see, Virginia Moore. Theatrical business, eh? Forgotten your own name already. Sure, I understand. Let's go have lunch and talk about the home folks. What's in a name, after all?

Warren Expected to Take Active Part in Campaign

Washington, Aug. 1.—Arrival here today of Charles B. Warren, retiring ambassador to Mexico and chairman of the platform committee at the republican national convention, revived speculation as to the part he will take in the republican campaign. Mr. Warren came to Washington to surrender formally his commission as ambassador to Mexico, but it was understood that as a White House guest, opportunity would be afforded for conferences of a political nature between him and the President. It has been generally presumed that Mr. Warren would be requested to take an active part in the campaign.

Mr. Coolidge is expected to go over his notification address, now being drafted, with Mr. Warren. He has consulted frequently during his work on the speech with George Harvey, former ambassador to Great Britain, and probably will read it over early next week to William M. Butler, chairman of the republican national committee.

A World's Fair will be held at Vancouver in 1927.

Illinois Central System Has Paid Cash Dividends

Regularly for Sixty-Four Years

The Illinois Central System has paid cash dividends on its capital stock every year since 1860. This is a record which can be duplicated by but few business organizations of any kind in this country. The rate of dividend paid has ranged from a minimum of 4 per cent to a maximum of 10 per cent a year. Since January 1, 1917, the rate paid has been 7 per cent. The average cash dividend paid throughout the sixty-four years has been 6.83 per cent a year.

The market price of Illinois Central stock has fluctuated, as have the market prices of other securities, but this dividend record shows that Illinois Central stock has always been a dependable investment. The Illinois Central System, however, is one of the most fortunate American railroads. Its lines serve the Mississippi Valley, the "bread basket of the world," and it has always enjoyed good credit.

Credit is both the cause and the result of efficient operation. No railway system can serve its patrons adequately unless it has the credit that will enable it to borrow money for necessary expenditures upon property improvements as needed. Therefore we believe that the patrons of a railroad should be as much interested in safeguarding the credit of that railroad as the operators of the road themselves.

The number of holders of Illinois Central stock has varied from time to time. At present there are 16,442 holders of the common and preferred stock. Of this number 6,517, or about 40 per cent, are women, whose average holding is 37.9 shares each. The average holding of all shares, both by companies and by individuals, is 79.2 shares.

We are proud of our remarkable dividend record. We feel that it is a record of which every person living in the territory served by the Illinois Central System has a right to be proud. Our dividend record has been made possible by the excellent service which this railroad has been able to render to its patrons, together with the fertility of the soil and the steady industrial and agricultural development which has taken place in the territory served by the Illinois Central System lines. It is not too much to say that many manufacturing plants have been induced to locate in our territory in order that they might have the benefit of Illinois Central System service.

This statement is not intended to encourage anyone to purchase Illinois Central stock, but is in line with our established policy of acquainting our patrons with every phase of the Illinois Central System's organization and record of performance.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

C. H. MARKHAM,
President, Illinois Central System.

SYNOPSIS

Sir Oliver Trevelyan, renowned for his exploits on the Spanish Main, is betrothed to Rosamund Godolphin, but the marriage is opposed by Rosamund's brother, Peter. By repeated insults Peter finally provokes Oliver to threaten murder, and when Oliver's young half-brother, Lionel, kills Peter in an unprovoked quarrel over a woman, suspicion falls on Oliver. Even Rosamund believes him guilty and asks him to explain the trail of blood found leading from the body to his doorway. Feeling bound to protect Lionel, Oliver can do nothing but protest his innocence. But he goes to the justices and asks them to draw up a document attesting to the fact that he bears on his body no mark of recent wound; that therefore the trail of blood, obviously that of the murderer, injured in the encounter, was not his. This document he takes away to hold in readiness until needed.

A few weeks later Lionel learns from Jasper Leigh, a pirate sea captain whose ship is lying in the harbor, that the queen has been petitioned to command the justices to bring Oliver to trial—which they had previously refused to do. Oliver, meantime, goes to Rosamund to lay the proof of his innocence before her, but she refuses to see him. Lionel tells him of the petition to the queen. Half-crazed with fear that should Oliver clear himself his own implication will follow, he formulates a scheme to get Oliver out of the way, and goes to Jasper Leigh for assistance. Leigh suggests abducting Oliver and carrying him overseas to toil on the plantations.

He lowered his voice and spoke with some slight hesitation, fearing that he proposed perhaps more than his prospective employer might desire.

"He might return," was the answer that dispelled all doubts on that score.

"Ah!" said the skipper. "What of the Barbary rovers, then? They lack slaves and are ever ready to trade, though they be niggardly payers. I never heard of none that returned once they had him safe aboard their galleys. I ha' done some trading with for spices and eastern carpets and the like."

Master Lionel breathed hard. "Is a horrible fate isn't it?"

The captain stroked his beard. "Yet 'tis the only really safe bet-stowal, and when all is said 'tis not so horrible as hanging, and certainly less dishonoring to a man's kin. Ye'd be serving Sir Oliver and yourself."

"'Tis so, 'tis so," cried Master Lionel almost fiercely. "And the price?"

The seaman shifted on his short, sturdy legs, and his face grew pensive.

"A hundred pound?" he suggested tentatively.

"Done with you for a hundred pounds," was the prompt answer—

so prompt that Captain Leigh realized he had driven a fool's bargain which it was incumbent upon him to amend.

"That is, a hundred pounds for myself," he corrected slowly. "Then there be the crew to reckon for—to keep their counsel and lend a hand; 'twill mean another hundred at the least."

Master Lionel considered a moment.

"It is more than I can lay my hands on at short notice. But, look you, you shall have a hundred and fifty pounds in coin and the balance in jewels. You shall not be the loser in that, I promise you. And when you come again and bring me word that all is done as you now undertake there shall be the like again."

Upon that the bargain was settled. And when the deal came to talk of ways and means he found that he had allied himself to a man who understood his business thoroughly. All the assistance that the skipper asked was that Master Lionel should lure his gentleman to some convenient spot conveniently near the water side. There Leigh would have a boat and his men in readiness, and the rest might very safely be left to him.

In a flash Lionel bethought him of the proper place for this. He swung round and pointed across the water to Trefusis Point and the gray pile of Godolphin Court all bathed in sunshine now.

"Yonder, at Trefusis Point in the shadow of Godolphin Court at eight tomorrow night, when there will be no moon. I'll see that he is there. But on your life do not miss him."

"Trust me," said Master Leigh. "And the money?"

"When you have him safely aboard come to me at Penarrow," he replied, which showed that after all he did not trust Master Leigh any further than he was compelled.

On that they parted. Lionel mounted and rode away, whilst Master Leigh made a trumpet of his hands and hallooed to the ship.

As he stood waiting for the boat that came off to fetch him a smile slowly overspread the adventurer's rugged face.

CHAPTER VII
TRAPPED

Master Lionel was absent most of the following day from Penarrow upon a pretext of making certain purchases in Truro. It would be half past seven when he returned, and as he entered he met Sir Oliver in the hall.

"I have a message for you from Godolphin Court," he announced, and saw his brother stiffen and his face change color. "A boy met me at the gates and bade me tell you that Mistress Rosamund desires a word with you forthwith."

Sir Oliver's heart almost stopped, then went off at a gallop.

"Be thou blessed for these good tidings!" he answered on a note of high excitement. "I go at once."

And on the instant he departed. Such was his eagerness, indeed, that under the hot spur of it he did not even stay to fetch that parchment which was to be his unanswerable advocate.

Master Lionel said no word as his brother swept out. He shrank back a little into the shadows. He was white to the lips and felt as he would stifle. As the door closed he moved suddenly. He sprang to follow Sir Oliver. Conscience cried out to him that he could not do this thing. But Fear was swift to answer that outcry. Unless he permitted what was planned to take its course his life might pay the penalty.

He turned and lurched into the dining room upon legs that trembled.

He found the table set for supper as on that other night when he had staggered in with a wound in his side to be cared for and sheltered by Sir Oliver. He did not approach the table; he crossed to the fire and sat down there holding out his hands to the blaze. He was very cold and could not still his trembling. His very teeth chattered.

Nicholas came in to know if he would sup. He answered unsteadily that despite the lateness of the hour he would await Sir Oliver's return.

"Is Sir Oliver abroad?" quoth the servant in surprise.

"He went out a moment since, I know not whither," replied Lionel. "But since he has not supped he is not like to be long absent."

Upon that he dismissed the servant and sat huddled there, a prey to mental tortures which were not to be repressed. His mind would turn upon naught but the steadfast, unwavering affection of which Sir Oliver ever had been prodigal toward him. In this very matter of Peter Godolphin's death, what sacrifices had not Sir Oliver made to shield him? From so much love and self-sacrifice in the past he inclined to argue now that not even in extreme peril would his brother betray him. And then that had streak of fear which made a villain of him reminded him that to argue thus was to argue upon supposition that it would be perilous to trust such an assumption; that if, after all, Sir Oliver should fail him in the crucial test, then was he lost indeed.

Then came doubt, and, finally, assurance of another sort, assurance that this was not so and that he knew it; assurance that he lied to himself, seeking to condone the thing he did. He took his head in his hands and groaned aloud. He was a villain, a black-hearted, soulless villain! He reviled himself again. There came a moment when he rose shuddering, resolved after his brother and save him from the doom that awaited him out yonder in the night.

But again that resolve was withered by the breath of selfish fear. Limply he resumed his seat, and his thoughts took a fresh turn.

The Brethren Young People's conference will be held at the camp ground at this place August 12 to 17. The first young people's conference was held here the summer of 1923. An Illinois conference was created at the demand of the young people of the state who felt that the territory justified conference of its own. The attendance last year proved that the demand was well grounded. Northern Illinois was particularly well represented and, considering the distance of the Southern district it was fairly well represented. It is expected that the attendance this year will far surpass that of last year. The purpose of the conference is to train and develop young people in every line of active Christian service. The conference is for young people generally thought of between sixteen and twenty-four and for adult leaders of this group.

Friday, Aug. 15 has been designated as Visitor's Day, when an invitation is given to those who wish to visit the conference. What to bring? Army cuts are provided in the cottages. The Franklin Grove Church has most graciously offered to supply the cots with comforters, but the delegates will need to furnish their own linens and blankets for covering. They should also bring pillows, towels, soap etc., in addition to these bring Bibles and notebooks. Those attending should plan for a registration fee of $2. Meals will be served cafeteria style by the Ladies Aid Society of Franklin Grove who rendered such acceptable service last year, and judging by last year's expenses $5 should be ample provision for board during the conference. Probably $2 will be needed for text books.

The following program will be carried out daily:
6:00—Rising hour.
6:30 to 6:50—Morning watch.
7:00—Breakfast.
Training in the Devotional Life. A course intended to help the young people in discovering the elements of worship and to enable them to form habits of devotion in their daily lives.
2—Getting into Your Life Work. A study of the factors entering into and determining the individual's choice of life work.
3—How Jesus Met Life's Questions; 4—Leaders of Youth, for adult leaders who are definitely interested in the leadership of the youth in local churches.
5—9:55 Second Period Classes; 6th Our Friends in the Far East, a description of the missionary work of the church in other lands. 6th, Unfinished task in America, a study of the work yet to be done in the home, the history of the Church of the Brethren, 8th; Organization and Adherence with the purpose and work of the school.
9:55-10:40—Assembly. Forum discussion of present day problems confronting young people.
10:40-10:55—Recreational Period.
10:55-11:40—Third Period Classes.

William N. Bucher was born in New Oxford, Pa., Sept. 12, 1861, and died at Franklin Grove, Ill., July 29, 1924, at the age of 62 years, 9 months and 13 days.
He was married December 24, 1885 to Miss Anna Catherine Hurst, and to this union were born two children Edith V. Morgan and Lewis J. both of Franklin Grove. May 29, 1880 he united with the Evangelical Lutheran Church of which he was a member at the time of death. Mr. Bucher was a good neighbor, and most accommodating. He lived the Golden Rule, in doing unto others as he would have them do to him. For many years he was street commissioner and marshal of the village and was always a faithful worker until health became so poor that he was unable to attend to the work connected with these offices. Thursday afternoon at about four o'clock he was stricken with paralysis, while sharpening a saw, and fell to the ground, from which he never rallied. He leaves to mourn his passing, his wife, daughter and son, two brothers and five sisters, Horace of Ashton Ill., John of New Oxford, Pa., Mrs. Kate Hoff of Dixon, Ill.; Mrs. Florence Markely, Mrs. Sadie Wenna Mrs. Phillips Dowers and Mrs. Emma Cashman, all of Pennsylvania. The funeral services were conducted from the home Monday afternoon, Rev. Thomas London Jones of the Presbyterian church assisted by Rev. R. W. Pittman of the Christian church at Washington Grove. Interment was made in the Franklin cemetery. The pall bearers were: F. D. Kelley, C. W. Crum, L. S. Emmert, R. C. Gross, L. A. Trottnow, and E. O. Orner. Mrs. B. C. Hussey and Miss Elcie Lott sang two funeral hymns. The beautiful floral offerings evidenced sympathetic tenderness of neighbors and friends.
Mrs. William Trottnow received word last evening of the death of her son, Charles Trottnow at Helena, Montana. His death was not unexpected as he has been in poor health for a long time and the past three weeks have been spent in a sanitarium but with no helpful results. Burial will take place at Helena. He leaves to mourn his passing: his wife, his mother, one sister, Mrs. Clara Trottnow of this place; two brothers, Fred of this place and Walter Trottnow of Peoria. Charles was born and reared to manhood at this place and would have been 43 years old next month. Mrs. Trottnow and family have the sympathy of a large circle of friends.
Mr. and Mrs. George Hewitt of Niagara Falls are visiting at the home of his aunt, Miss Amanda Miller.
Mrs. Fred Jewitt and baby of Amboy were Franklin visitors, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Ives.
Dr. Banker received a card yesterday from Dr. and Mrs. Frank Thompson of Chicago, who are now on a hunting trip in France. Dr. Thompson was a former resident of this place, and he and his wife are well known here.
Dr. F. M. Banker and daughter, Miss Emily attended the picnic at Lowell Park, Wednesday for doctors and families.
Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Dugdale and Miss Maude Norris left Sunday morning for Devil's Lake, Wisconsin, where they will spend two weeks.
Dr. and Mrs. F. M. Banker and daughters entertained with dinner yesterday; Miss Alice Morris and daughter, Miss Lucille, and Mrs. Samuel Herbst.
Mrs. Douglas Stultz accompanied her aunt and cousin to DeKalb, yesterday for a few days' visit.
Mr. and Mrs. Will Herbst and Dallas and Scott Stultz were in Mount Morris, Saturday evening where they visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dale and also enjoyed the Kable Brothers' band concert.
Mrs. Frank Royster and Mrs. Arthur Huler of near the St. James church were guests, Wednesday at the home of the former's daughter, Mrs. Arthur Watson.
Harry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Keller, had the misfortune to fall and break a limb while playing at his home last evening. The lad will miss a lot of fun for the next few weeks.
Emery Wolf had his team run away from him, Monday, while making hay. His leg was cut very badly which necessitated taking several stitches. At this writing he is able to work and no serious results are expected.
Mrs. Mary Selgestad and Miss Margaret Kirkpatrick of Dixon were visitors today at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hartzell.
Miss Hattie Flair returned home today after a visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Abe Yingling at Rockford.
Mr. and Mrs. Charles Howard entertained with 6 o'clock dinner yesterday, Rev. and Mrs. L. V. Stiller and daughter, Gwendolyn.
Mr. and Mrs. Conklin of Baltimore, Maryland were Sunday visitors at the home of her cousin, Rev. Cyrus Suter.

ference will be held at the camp ground at this place August 12 to 17. The first young people's conference was held here the summer of 1923. An Illinois conference was created at the demand of the young people of the state who felt that the territory justified conference of its own. The attendance last year proved that the demand was well grounded. Northern Illinois was particularly well represented and, considering the distance of the Southern district it was fairly well represented. It is expected that the attendance this year will far surpass that of last year. The purpose of the conference is to train and develop young people in every line of active Christian service. The conference is for young people generally thought of between sixteen and twenty-four and for adult leaders of this group.

Friday, Aug. 15 has been designated as Visitor's Day, when an invitation is given to those who wish to visit the conference. What to bring? Army cuts are provided in the cottages. The Franklin Grove Church has most graciously offered to supply the cots with comforters, but the delegates will need to furnish their own linens and blankets for covering. They should also bring pillows, towels, soap etc., in addition to these bring Bibles and notebooks. Those attending should plan for a registration fee of $2. Meals will be served cafeteria style by the Ladies Aid Society of Franklin Grove who rendered such acceptable service last year, and judging by last year's expenses $5 should be ample provision for board during the conference. Probably $2 will be needed for text books.

The following program will be carried out daily:
6:00—Rising hour.
6:30 to 6:50—Morning watch.
7:00—Breakfast.

Training in the Devotional Life. A course intended to help the young people in discovering the elements of worship and to enable them to form habits of devotion in their daily lives.
2—Getting into Your Life Work. A study of the factors entering into and determining the individual's choice of life work.
3—How Jesus Met Life's Questions; 4—Leaders of Youth, for adult leaders who are definitely interested in the leadership of the youth in local churches.
5—9:55 Second Period Classes; 6th Our Friends in the Far East, a description of the missionary work of the church in other lands. 6th, Unfinished task in America, a study of the work yet to be done in the home, the history of the Church of the Brethren, 8th; Organization and Adherence with the purpose and work of the school.

9:55-10:40—Assembly. Forum discussion of present day problems confronting young people.

The Assembly tonight will complete its first week of entertainment to-night with the appearance of the Children's Circus. It is an attraction that has an appeal to all even though its name is The Children's Circus. From the general run of entertainment which has appeared on the Assembly platform this first week it is safe to rely upon the choices of the program committee in asserting that the remainder of the Assembly will maintain the same high standard as has been manifested thus far.

Tomorrow afternoon the Kable Brothers Band from Mt. Morris present their program at 2:30. On Monday, The Montague Light Opera Company will present a splendid musical production, "Gretchen of Holland," with special scenery and picturesque costumes. The big production will be presented at 8 o'clock, while at 2 p. m. they will appear in a prelude to their main performance. This company has toured the country from coast to coast a number of times and has met with nothing but success and approval wherever they appeared.

Moulton's Lecture Good

That the people are interested in knowing more about the starry heavens above us is evidenced by the rather good audience which turned out to hear Professor Moulton's lecture on the Sun, Moon and Stars. He was preceded by a concert of the Dixon Symphony Orchestra. This organization deserves much favorable comment for the good quality and type of music it presents. Tonight, again, they will appear in concert at 7:30, and something worth while is in store for all who attend.

In the lecture by Professor Moulton the stereopticon added much to the interest of the subject. The professor stated that the pictures which he showed upon the screen cost over a million dollars in their preparation. He first took the audience to the observatories at Lake Geneva and Mt. Wilson, where the largest telescopes in the world are located and through which the results flashed upon the screen were obtained.

First Stop at Moon

After seeing the instruments, the astronomer uses, he proceeded to take his audience on a tour of exploration through the worlds, around this world and show the wonders and immensities of it all. The first stopping place was the Moon, since that body is closest to the earth. Its geography including craters and mountains were as well known to the professor as an ordinary persons would know the geography of his back yard.

The next body to come within the range of the stereopticon was the sun. Concerning which, the facts startled and astounded with their unimaginable dimensions. Ninety-three million miles, the distance from the earth to the sun, even seems small when the next star is thousands of times greater in distance away from us than is our own sun. The eye of the telescope enable the astronomer to see millions of stars which are invisible to the naked eye, each of which is a sun like ours, but most of them much larger than our own luminary body. The message Prof. Moulton left with the audience was an impression of the greatness of the universe and universes in which we live.

At Religious School

At the school for religious workers, Dr. Aberly in his Bible talk was the only speaker. His subject was Our Lord's Work Among His Disciples. In the course of his talk he pointed out how Jesus taught His disciples the Christian virtues. The method of Jesus' teaching and work among His disciples was studied as exemplified in the life of one man, Peter.

The remainder of the day was turned over to the Illinois Luther League, which is now in session at the Assembly. The opening session took place at 2 p. m. About 70 delegates were on hand and all indications are for a lively convention.

The annual stockholders' meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, August 5.

CAMP NOTES

Miss Evelyn Woodrich of Elgin is stopping at the Blue Bird hotel. She will be here until the middle of next week for all the sessions of the Assembly up to that time. Mrs. Ruth Schumacher also of Elgin is with her, in the capacity of chaperon, at least so, she is introduced by Miss Woodrich.

Mrs. S. T. Peterson of Chicago arrived last night for the Luther League convention.

The Blue Bird hotel reports that all the rooms are occupied, the only room being on the roof.

The following is the list of arrivals at the Blue Bird hotel for the Luther League Convention:

From Chicago—Joseph Holsinger, Cliff Hallen, George Tschappat, Max Goltz, W. A. Roehow, Bernard Kwert, A. J. Gorsky, Ada L. Talchik, Anna D. Kozik, Betty Schnall, Howard Abel, Ernest Heinze, Florence Heinze, Rev. Wm. Meinke, Chas. E. Botenstein, Lawrence Vest, Edythe Nordstven, Walden Koonke, Carl H. Gross.

From Chicago Heights—Alice Sodergberg, Gladys Curran.

From Woodstock, Ill.—Stella Jensen, Ethel Weinke, Marion Weinke, Eunice Feinman, Florence Beck.

From Mt. Pleasant, Ill.—Florence Wagner, Anna Roth, Mary Sutton, Geneva Benzinger.

Harvard, Ill.—Willie Kolz, Carl Deitloff, Whitmus, Nable Bass, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Schilder.

Allice Rose, Mt. Carmel, Ill.; H. W. Barth, Decatur, Ill.; Harriet Zugschewer, Chadwick, Ill.; Gertrude Schaeffer, Peoria, Ill.; Angie Smith, West Chicago, Ill.; Keith Wehner, Washington, Ill.; Ida Pottelger, Aurora, Ill.

From Elgin, Ill.—Anna Seiger, Esther Schleman, Eunice Schleman, Florence Johnson, Elnora Johnson.

From Joliet, Ill.—Ruth Gottschalk, Ramona Schwever, Dorothy Bolton, George Braun, Theodore Schmitz.

BERNHARDT VILLAGE

Paris—a garden village for French writers and artists is being built in the beautiful woods at Plessin-Robinson, outside Paris. The village will start with 100 dwellings and studios and will be named after Sarah Bernhardt.

With a dog as her only companion, an English woman recently traveled 20,000 miles into the heart of Africa.

MOTHER LOVE WINS

The glittering opportunity for a screen career—sought daily by thousands of pilgrims to Hollywood—has been flatly rejected by Mrs. Frances Fay Jacobs (above), 18-year-old mother. Movie life is too much of a gamble she told the magnate who offered her a job, and she wants first to think of securing a proper education for her three and two-year-old boys, shown below. ALFALFA WEEVIL IN WEST HAS ALL CROP THREATENED

Federal Government Has Taken Hand in Fight Against Parasite.

By NEA Service.

Reno, Nev.—State and federal authorities in the west have combined forces to fight the destructive alfalfa weevil. The pest threatens the greatest crop of the irrigated states and incidentally strikes at the livestock industry.

Since 1904, when this pest was discovered near Salt Lake City, Utah, it has spread into Idaho, Wyoming and Nevada. It has made such inroads on the hay industry that the government now has experts in the west studying the habits of the worm and insect to determine the best method of controlling it, if not exterminating it.

In Nevada and Idaho federal and state authorities have concentrated their war on the weevil. Around the Boise valley, Idaho, some 20,000 acres of hay were sprayed and in Nevada, where the weevil came but a few years ago, 650 acres were sprayed.

This work has been done under supervision of Sterling J. Snow, who first took up the fight against the weevil in Utah.

"In Idaho conditions have been so bad that two sprayings were necessary this year," says Snow.

"Spraying and dusting. The type of machine most satisfactory is a traction which sprays a swath of 20 feet wide.

"It requires at least three days after a field is sprayed to kill sufficient worms to give the alfalfa a new start, and it is a week or ten days before the field shows to any great extent the results of the spraying.

"A field attacked by the pest looks pretty bad directly after being sprayed, as the hay is more or less trampled and rolled down. But in a brief time, with no worms attacking it, it recovers and takes on new life, often bringing nearly a normal crop the first cutting and absolutely assuring a second crop, which would be a failure were it not for the spraying of the first crop.

"Calcium arsenate is the most effective spray material we have found. About two pounds to the acre is required and the cost ranges from 65 cents to $1 per acre, depending upon the field, its bearingness to water and the team used."

In addition to spraying, dusting was tried. The number of worms killed with the calcium arsenic powder was found to be equal to the number found in sprayed fields. But it is feared that in a windy country dusting may not be as effective as spraying.

It is recommended, however, in localities where water is hard to obtain. The cost of dusting is a trifle less than spraying.

The insect is most easily discovered during the early years of its presence in new fields. In the form of the full-grown larva, it is then a green worm-like creature one-fourth of an inch long, with a black head and a faint white stripe down the middle of its back.

The adult is harder to find than the larva, but is present in the field throughout the whole year instead of the summer only. It is an oval brown beetle, three-sixteenths of an inch long, with a prominent snout projecting downward from the front of the head. The color of old, weathered specimens is nearly black.

The adult stays close to the ground during the early spring and late fall, but climbs about on the tops of the plants during the warm season. It is not readily seen by one walking through the fields, because it habitually drops to the ground when disturbed and its color helps to make it invisible.

The Laying Hen— the Best Farm Asset

By Horace B. Green.

Good laying hens are now producing from 40 to 60 eggs per 100 hens daily. If they are producing less than 40 eggs per 100 hens there are a good many that are idle and ought to be sold and their room given to those that are strictly on duty. All kinds of feed suitable for poultry is too high to waste on non-laying hens, so to begin with, get rid of your "star boarders."

Many make the mistake of cutting down the feed for all kinds of poultry at this season of the year, owing to the high prices of the various sorts of grains but such a method is a mistake; better cull your chickens carefully and see the non-layers and then feed the layers generously and watch them respond with eggs that will soon bring 25 to 30 cents a dozen. It takes an ounce or more of hen's blood to produce an egg and she cannot replace that blood so as to produce an egg the second day and keep it up unless she is well fed on appropriate feed. Appropriate feed for eggs is about as follows: One bushel each of corn, wheat and oats ground rather fine together, then add 100 pounds of bran and put it in hoppers or boxes so they can run to it at all times. This also makes a first-class growing mash for chicks of all ages after ten days old.

I was culling a flock of good hens a while ago and not 25 per cent of them were laying. I said to the lady, your hens are too poor to lay, what are you feeding them? She said: "Hain't feeding 'em with nothing, letting 'em but for their living. Feed 'em so high and ain't got no money. I gave her the above formula and said, "that will cost you about $5.40, but get it at one of the mills on 30 days' time, take home and feed it to your hens and before 30 days expires you will have gathered two cases of eggs that will bring you to $21. You can't pay your bill before it is due and have a nice profit left." I do not know whether that particular lady did that or not but I know that thing can be done and will make good in almost every case.

Laying hens should be well fed all time, but especially from July 1 on up until the last of October, when they should be sold for market except such as are wanted for breeders for the next season. Do not winter hen except those wanted for breeding purposes; depend on pullets altogether for winter eggs.

MONDAY-TUESDAY—GLORIA SWANSON in "MANHANDLED"
Imagine a picture ten times better than your favorite Swanson picture to date! Imagine Gloria more stirring dramatic, more gaspingly gowned than ever! And imagine her as a howling funny comedienne besides! But you can't imagine it! See "Manhandled."
